I. Catalog Description

Provides high-beginning level study in English for the non-native speaker. Develops language skills in the areas of listening, speaking, reading and writing, with emphasis on reading and writing. May not be counted toward graduation requirements. A grade of “C” or better will be required for completion of this course. Prerequisite: Assessment of English language proficiency. (3:1). Lab fee.

II. Course Objectives

Since this class is designed to prepare non-native speakers of English for academic courses, students are expected to use English in class at an appropriate level. Moreover, writing, reading, grammar, and listening and speaking activities will be incorporated throughout the course.

Upon satisfactory completion of this course, the student will be able to perform the following reading tasks:

A. Preview text using a variety of strategies.
B. Identify main ideas and supporting details.
C. Predict what a reading selection will be about based on the title, subtitles, an illustrations.
D. Draw a mind map or create an outline using supporting details.
E. Respond orally and in writing to open-ended literal and inferential questions based on reading material.
F. State opinions based on readings.
G. Identify different parts of speech used in a reading passage.
H. Recognize basic sentence patterns in the text.

Upon satisfactory completion of this course, the student will be able to perform the following writing tasks:

I. Develop different types of paragraphs using topic sentence, supporting details, and concluding sentences.
J. Recognize and correct errors reflecting high beginning grammar sentence structure.
K. Apply the writing process which includes pre-writing, revising, editing, and reviewing.
L. Read and recognize how paragraphs are structured and use them as models for writing.
M. Use the dictionary and thesaurus as aids in improving vocabulary and word choice.
N. Give verbal and written feedback to peers during peer editing activities.
O. Combine sentences with and, but, and or.
P. Use time clauses to show how two ideas are related to each other and also linked to a specific time within the same sentence.
Q. Use the conventions of writing to include indentation, margins, capitalization and punctuation.
III. Evaluation

A. Placement
Enrollment in ESOL 0315 is determined by placement test score.

B. Assessment
1. Students will demonstrate successful attainment of the course objectives through instructor assigned activities which can include the development of a portfolio, reading logs, writing samples, tests, quizzes, and where appropriate, graded speaking activity.

2. Students must have a 70% or higher to take the Exit Exams and must pass the course Exit Exam with a score of 70% or better. The Exit Exam includes a reading section and writing section. If a student passes one and does not pass the other, the student may take a second exam in the area they did not pass. However, if a student did not pass both sections, they do not have a second chance to take the Exit Exam. Students must have a passing grade in the course and the Exit Exam to pass the course.

3. Students are required to complete all lab activities for this course. Refer to lab manual for details.

C. It is agreed that the percentage weight of reading and writing assignments will be equal and that at least 40% of the student’s grade shall be derived from writing assignments consisting of 6-8 paragraphs of 150-200 words each, at least 40% shall be derived from Reading assignments and no more than 20% from other evaluations (e.g. - lab, participation, etc.). Lab work cannot count more than 15% of the final grade.
