Credit Lec. Lab

I. Catalog Description
Provides high-intermediate level study in English for the non-native speaker. Develops language skills in the areas of listening, speaking, reading, and writing, with an emphasis on reading and writing. May not be counted toward graduation requirements. A grade of “C” or better will be required for completion of this course. Prerequisite: Assessment of English language proficiency or ESOL 0316. (3:1). Lab fee.

II. Course Objectives
Since this class is designed to prepare non-native speakers of English for academic courses, students are expected to use English in class at an appropriate level. Moreover, writing, reading, grammar, and listening and speaking activities will be incorporated throughout the course.

Upon satisfactory completion of this course, the student will be able to:

A. Read at the required reading level as measured by an appropriate reading selection or selections chosen by the discipline.

B. Demonstrate the writing process in four-paragraph essays containing simple, compound and complex sentences with correct grammatical structures in the following rhetorical styles: narrative, description, expository, compare/contrast, classification, and persuasive using appropriate proficiency in written and oral communication.

C. Identify the following elements, transitions, and organizational patterns after reading assigned materials:

1. Elements: topic/main idea/thesis/major details
2. Modes of writing: narrative, descriptive, expository
3. Patterns: Listing, Chronologic Order, Classification, Cause/effect and Compare/contrast
4. References for writing assignments

D. Read and correct errors in student essays through peer-editing activities.

E. Define and analyze forms of figurative language and academic and technical vocabulary using context clues, structural analysis, and the English dictionary.
F. Produce concept maps and/or outlines demonstrating the thesis statement/main ideas and major details for use with the writing and reading process.

G. Respond orally and in writing to open-ended literal and inferential questions based on writing and reading assignments.

H. Demonstrate the reading process utilizing a variety of methods such as SQ3R.

I. Annotate and summarize instructor-assigned reading selections.

J. Identify and produce elements of critical thinking to include fact/opinion, author’s purpose, author’s tone, and drawing valid conclusions and inferences.

III. Evaluation

A. Placement

Enrollment into ESOL 0317 is determined by placement test score or successful completion of ESOL 0316.

B. Assessment

1. Students will demonstrate successful attainment of the course objectives through instructor assigned activities which can include the development of a portfolio, reading logs, writing samples, tests, quizzes, and where appropriate, graded speaking activity.

2. Students must have a 70% or higher to take the Exit Exams and must pass the course Exit Exam with a score of 70% or better. The Exit Exam includes a reading section and writing section. If a student passes one and does not pass the other, the student may take a second exam in the area they did not pass. However, if a student did not pass both sections, they do not have a second chance to take the Exit Exam. Students must have a passing grade in the course and the Exit Exam to pass the course.

3. Students are required to complete all lab activities for this course. Refer to lab manual for details.

C. It is agreed that the percentage weight of reading and writing assignments will be equal and that a minimum 40% of the student’s grade shall be derived from writing assignments consisting of 6-8 essays of 350-500 words, and a minimum 40% shall be derived from Reading assignments and no more than 20% from other evaluations (e.g. - lab, participation, etc.). Lab work cannot count more than 15% of the final grade.

Grading Scale

A = 90 - 100%
B = 80 - 89%
C = 70 - 79%
D = 60 - 69%
F = 0 - 59%
