- D. Identify and describe the purpose of depressions
- E. Identify and describe the purpose of projections
- F. Be able to evaluate plastic parts for improvements for better performance
- G. Select plastic materials per performance requirements such as strength and shrinkage

III. THECB Learning Outcomes (WECM)

1. Identify the different types of injection molds.
2. Describe basic mold design aspects.
3. Take apart and reconstruct molds.
4. Identify the purposes of different mold steels.
5. Use equipment for mold making to construct a cavity and core for an injection mold.
6. Use proper mold cleaners, mold releases, and rust preventatives for mold maintenance.

IV. Evaluation

The skills and knowledge for identification and demonstration as stated in the objectives will be evaluated by assignments and test. Grades will be based on written exams and laboratory activities. Letter grades will be assigned as follows:
