Student's Daily Self Evaluation and Reflection of the Clinical Learning Experience

Student's Name _____
Date _____

Name of Preceptor _____
Date _____

The student will complete a Self-Evaluation and Reflection summary at the end of each clinical day. Self-evaluation promotes professional development, enhances self-esteem and, develops self-awareness. The self-assessment will enable students to carefully explore their strengths and weaknesses and to identify actions that need improvement. The student and the preceptor will discuss the self-evaluation and identify any areas of concerns that need additional assistance and training. All self-evaluations and reflections are to be shared with the Clinical Instructor during clinical rounds. The instructor will also provide feedback and assistance to both the preceptor and the student.

Guided Reflection Questions	Self-Evaluation and Reflection
Evaluate how you applied principles of leadership and management to provide safe and compassionate care for the patients and their families. Write the specific patient safety goals used in practice today. What would you change to improve and why do you think this change is needed? What resources will you use?
Describe how you set priorities for one of your patients today. Do you think that the priority you identified was the most important one for the patient? What additional problems do you now identify after working with the patients on your team throughout the shift?
What was your experience in collaborating with the interdisciplinary health care team? What improvements will you make? If there was no direct collaboration with other disciplines during your shift, list the disciplines involved with your patient's care and describe their role. How did you apply principles of delegation in working with unlicensed assistive personnel?
What improvements will you make? What resources will you use?

Guided Reflection Questions	Self-Evaluation and Reflection
If there was no opportunity for delegation during shift, describe the rules of delegation and list examples of tasks that could be delegated in your unit.
Describe the discharge planning process for one of your patients, including the role of other disciplines (even if no discharge is done during shift). What is your role and what resources will you use to learn the process?
What strengths and weaknesses did you identify today related to your overall performance in the Roles of the AD Nurse What will you do differently for the next clinical experience, be specific? What resources will you use?
What evidence-based practice journal article related to the care of your patients did you read for today and what did you learn? Note: Summarize the article, discuss it with your preceptor and attach it to this self-evaluation. One article per week must be a research article and one must be current nursing care related to one of the patients on your team (See the criteria for the written summary of the research article, page 13).
