Dependency Override Renewal

Student Name: _____ EPCC ID: _____

What is a Dependency Override Renewal?

Sometimes, students have circumstances that make it difficult or impossible to rely on their parents for support. A Dependency Override can allow you to be considered an independent student for financial aid purposes, even if your FAFSA says you are dependent. The Dependency Override Renewal is available for students whose Dependency Override was approved last academic year, and the circumstances continue to be the same.

Important Considerations:

- Not a Guarantee: Submitting a Dependency Override Renewal doesn't automatically mean you'll be approved. Each case is reviewed individually.
- Final Decision: The Financial Aid Office decision is final and cannot be appealed to the Department of Education.

Eligibility:

Dependency Overrides are typically considered in situations such as:

- Abuse or Neglect: Have experienced abuse or neglect within your family.
- Abandonment: No contact with parents or parents have abandoned you.

How to Apply for a Dependency Override Renewal?

1. Complete this form and the 2026-2027 Institutional Verification Form
